

THE MEMPHIS DAILY APPEAL--SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1861.

LOCAL MATTERS.

SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 2.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.—This election takes place here on Wednesday next.

YANKEE PRISONER.—A Yankee prisoner was arrested in this city yesterday—he has escaped from work on one of the forts above.

THE COLUMBIA BLOCKADE.—Mease, Galbreath and Foutz, the delegates of the Chamber of Commerce, to Cranford, started on their mission on Thursday morning's train.

CONFEDERATE COMMISSIONER.—Ald. Hill has been appointed Confederate commissioner and affidavits respecting property undergoing sequestration, and passing into the hands of the C. S. receiver, are made before him at his office on Main street below Madison.

THE SUGAR LADIES.—Ald. Cochran, the chairman of the City Council Wharf Committee, is highly engaged in having the wharves between Washington and Poplar streets, where it is probable the sugar landing will be located, put into good condition. Ladies are leveling and grading the bank and paving it. If the grade from Front Street to Water street were completed and made uniform, this portion of the city which would have misapprehension on the Mississippi river.

ENTERPRISE.—A few weeks ago the machinery of Messrs. Stanley & Robtson was burned down—so soon were the rains equal than the enterprise has commenced the work of reconstruction.

WHITE RIVER.—The splendid passenger packet boat "White River," owned by Mr. Keene, arrived from Memphis on Tuesday evening, having made three days running time. She still keeps up her old reputation—good speed, extra passage, perfect comfort, high living, and leaving the minute she is advertised for.... The Louisville was to leave New Orleans for this effect Thursday evening.

BOATS LEAVING.—The steamer No. 1000, Captain J. W. Jones, left this morning for the mouth of the Ohio.

NEW ORLEANS.—The splendid passenger packet boat "New Orleans," owned by Mr. Keene, arrived from New Orleans on Tuesday evening, having made three days running time. She still keeps up her old reputation—good speed, extra passage, perfect comfort, high living, and leaving the minute she is advertised for.... The Louisville was to leave New Orleans for this effect Thursday evening.

RECORDED'S COURT.—At this court yesterday there were fourteen cases; nine persons were indicted to the amount of sixty-nine dollars; four were sent to the clinkers, one was sentenced to receive twenty-nine days' imprisonment.

WHITE RIVER.—The splendid passenger packet boat "White River," owned by Mr. Keene, arrived from the mouth of the Ohio on Tuesday evening, having made three days running time. She still keeps up her old reputation—good speed, extra passage, perfect comfort, high living, and leaving the minute she is advertised for.... The Louisville was to leave New Orleans for this effect Thursday evening.

THE ZOUAVES.—This evening the Zouaves, who commenced their performances in sight of the Malakoff, and who have drawn much attention from the officers and sailors of the fleet, will appear before the public. That they are popular is evident by the numerous copies of the London Times that they possessed their songs of "Empress." The public on this continent have recognized the justice of their European admirers, and to-night the people of the city will judge whether they are worthy of their applause.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of, not of much interest. The following cases are set at the Arches this morning:

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

ARRESTED.—Mc. Chumill, of the law firm of Winslow & Chumill, freight dealers on the premises where the fire originated on Thursday, was yesterday brought to the city by Capt. Gurnett, of the police, who arrested him at Brownsville, Tenn., where he had been staying for some days.

A GREAT FAVOR.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of, not of much interest. The following cases are set at the Arches this morning:

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

ARRESTED.—Mc. Chumill, of the law firm of Winslow & Chumill, freight dealers on the premises where the fire originated on Thursday, was yesterday brought to the city by Capt. Gurnett, of the police, who arrested him at Brownsville, Tenn., where he had been staying for some days.

A GREAT FAVOR.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of, not of much interest. The following cases are set at the Arches this morning:

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

ARRESTED.—Mc. Chumill, of the law firm of Winslow & Chumill, freight dealers on the premises where the fire originated on Thursday, was yesterday brought to the city by Capt. Gurnett, of the police, who arrested him at Brownsville, Tenn., where he had been staying for some days.

A GREAT FAVOR.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of, not of much interest. The following cases are set at the Arches this morning:

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

ARRESTED.—Mc. Chumill, of the law firm of Winslow & Chumill, freight dealers on the premises where the fire originated on Thursday, was yesterday brought to the city by Capt. Gurnett, of the police, who arrested him at Brownsville, Tenn., where he had been staying for some days.

A GREAT FAVOR.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of, not of much interest. The following cases are set at the Arches this morning:

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

ARRESTED.—Mc. Chumill, of the law firm of Winslow & Chumill, freight dealers on the premises where the fire originated on Thursday, was yesterday brought to the city by Capt. Gurnett, of the police, who arrested him at Brownsville, Tenn., where he had been staying for some days.

A GREAT FAVOR.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of, not of much interest. The following cases are set at the Arches this morning:

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

ARRESTED.—Mc. Chumill, of the law firm of Winslow & Chumill, freight dealers on the premises where the fire originated on Thursday, was yesterday brought to the city by Capt. Gurnett, of the police, who arrested him at Brownsville, Tenn., where he had been staying for some days.

A GREAT FAVOR.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of, not of much interest. The following cases are set at the Arches this morning:

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

ARRESTED.—Mc. Chumill, of the law firm of Winslow & Chumill, freight dealers on the premises where the fire originated on Thursday, was yesterday brought to the city by Capt. Gurnett, of the police, who arrested him at Brownsville, Tenn., where he had been staying for some days.

A GREAT FAVOR.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of, not of much interest. The following cases are set at the Arches this morning:

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

ARRESTED.—Mc. Chumill, of the law firm of Winslow & Chumill, freight dealers on the premises where the fire originated on Thursday, was yesterday brought to the city by Capt. Gurnett, of the police, who arrested him at Brownsville, Tenn., where he had been staying for some days.

A GREAT FAVOR.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of, not of much interest. The following cases are set at the Arches this morning:

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

ARRESTED.—Mc. Chumill, of the law firm of Winslow & Chumill, freight dealers on the premises where the fire originated on Thursday, was yesterday brought to the city by Capt. Gurnett, of the police, who arrested him at Brownsville, Tenn., where he had been staying for some days.

A GREAT FAVOR.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of, not of much interest. The following cases are set at the Arches this morning:

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

ARRESTED.—Mc. Chumill, of the law firm of Winslow & Chumill, freight dealers on the premises where the fire originated on Thursday, was yesterday brought to the city by Capt. Gurnett, of the police, who arrested him at Brownsville, Tenn., where he had been staying for some days.

A GREAT FAVOR.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of, not of much interest. The following cases are set at the Arches this morning:

LAW.—Our reader will not forget the case of the State vs. Kinsman, and the State vs. Davis. Should these not occupy the day, cases in half of either of the dockets will be called, and disposed of as called. Most of the cases yet to be tried set for the day, according to the first of December, among which are some of the cases of the term.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Merchant's Exchange Restaurant under new auspices, Mrs. Anna Baker proposes to cater for the public at its room in the Telegraph Building. See advertisement in another column.

RECORDERS COURT.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

ARRESTED.—Mc. Chumill, of the law firm of Winslow & Chumill, freight dealers on the premises where the fire originated on Thursday, was yesterday brought to the city by Capt. Gurnett, of the police, who arrested him at Brownsville, Tenn., where he had been staying for some days.

A GREAT FAVOR.—Mr. J. H. High, who lectured in this city last spring upon the question of separation, has not returned, having successfully evaded the Kentucky blockade. He has favored us with a number of northern papers of late—a kindness which is duly appreciated.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Several cases were disposed of,